

2018 公立特別入試英語口頭試問対策 No4

Interviewer: Nice to meet you. Welcome to our high school.

You:

Interviewer: How are you?

You:

Interviewer: Fine, thank you. Let's begin the exam. What's your name, please?

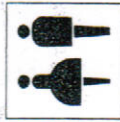

You:

Interviewer: Thank you. Here is a card. Here you are.

Please read a passage on it silently for one minute.

After that, read it out. Then, we will ask you five questions. Let's start.

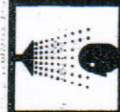

You: The Olympics were held in Tokyo in 1964. A few years before the Olympics, Japan had a big problem. It was a problem of communication. Many foreign people did not visit Japan, and we had only Japanese signs. For example, words like "便所" or "トイレ" were on toilet doors. These signs were not understood by many foreign people. Japanese people at that time needed to make signs in many different languages for foreign people. But when they put many words on one sign, the letters became too small. They could not easily read the sign. They had to think of signs for foreign people. Mr. Masaru Katsumi, a leader of a design team for the Olympics, had a great idea. He thought that it was easy for everyone to understand pictures. He wanted to make picture signs. These signs are called pictograms and are used in many places now.

Interviewer: Good. We'll have five questions for you. Are you ready?

You:

Interviewer: First question is "What is a big problem underlined in passage?" Answer it easily.

You:

Interviewer: Second question is "Why did Japanese people need make sings?"

You:

Interviewer: Third question is "What is a word in the blank?" You can guess.

You:

Interviewer: The fourth question is "What does Picture 1 stand for?"

You:

Interviewer: The fifth question is "What are these signs called?"

You:

Interviewer: OK. Well, let's move on the next. They are questions about yourself.

First, what is your favorite color?

You:

Interviewer: Why? Please tell me more.

You:

Interviewer: Next question. Who is the person that you respect? What's the reason?

You:

Interviewer: Final question. How do you go to school?

You:

Interviewer: How long does it take?

You:

Interviewer: I see. That's all. You can leave a room.
